Dr. Daniel Nussbaum, Chair of the Energy Academic Group, was the keynote speaker at the 2019 Scientific International Conference “Defense Resources Management in the 21st Century (CoDRM 2019)”, organized by the Regional Department of Defense Resources Management Studies, under the auspices of Carol I National Defense University, in Brasov, Romania, 07–08 November 2019.

The theme of the conference was Complementarity Between NATO and EU in Supporting Security and Stability, and Dr. Nussbaum spoke on the topic Energy Security—A new EU-NATO Challenge and a Bridge Between NATO and EU in Supporting Security and Stability. His talk, attended by approximately 100 people, covered the following topics: What is energy security?; Why do NATO and the EU care about energy security?; Resource Management challenges due to energy security; and some tools for addressing these challenges. The presentation was well received, and there is now an opportunity for a more long-term and strategic relationship between NPS and the Carol I National Defense University.
